2024 · WHAT ISSUES SHOULD I CONSIDER REGARDING MY RESTRICTED STOCK UNITS?

RSU GRANT ISSUES	YES	NO
> Do you need to review how RSUs work?
 Do you need to confirm the conditions of vesting? If so, consider the following: Depending on your plan, your RSUs may fully vest after a number of years, or they may follow a graduated vesting schedule over multiple years. Your plan may tie vesting to a liquidity event or performance goals, instead of (or in addition to) the expiration of a vesting period. Vesting triggers should be closely monitored to ensure there is no surprise tax liability.
Does your plan allow you to defer distribution of shares and continue to hold units until a later date, post-vesting (e.g., at retirement)? If so, consider whether it would be advantageous to choose a future payment date to coordinate the timing of tax recognition with your overall plan. Also, understand what events may accelerate any deferred payments.
Do you need to review what you will receive when your RSUs vest? If so, determine whether a cash settlement and/or stock settlement option is offered.
Does your company accrue/pay dividend equivalents while you hold RSUs? If so, consider how this affects your cash flow and tax liability.
Do you need to review how termination of your employment (voluntary or involuntary), disability, or death might affect your interests under your plan? If so, termination generally causes you to forfeit unvested interests (unless vesting is accelerated under your plan).

INVESTMENT ISSUES	YES	NO
Do shares of your company's stock, along with any unvested RSUs, make up a significant percentage of your investment portfolio (e.g., more than 10%)? If so, consider tax-efficient diversification strategies. Maintaining a concentration in your company's stock can be especially risky.
Does your company have a blackout period or trading window, or are there other limitations on your ability to sell shares?
Do you need downside protection while holding your company's shares?
If so, consider whether buying put options (if permitted) or investments with negative correlation would offer a safeguard.
Are you considering selling company shares at a loss? If so, review how the timing of your sale and any RSU grants or vesting may trigger the wash-sale rules.
TAX ISSUES	YES	NO
> Do you need to understand the tax consequences of the	YES	NO
		NO
Do you need to understand the tax consequences of the grant of your RSUs? If so, note that the receipt of an RSU is not a taxable event.		NO □

2024 · WHAT ISSUES SHOULD I CONSIDER REGARDING MY RESTRICTED STOCK UNITS?

TAX ISSUES (CONTINUED)	YES	NO	TAX ISSUES (CONTINUED)
 Do you want to reduce your income tax liability in the year that your RSUs vest? If so, consider the following: Maximizing deductible savings into tax-advantaged accounts (e.g., 401(k), 403(b), 457, traditional IRA, HSA, and/or FSA, etc.) can help reduce your taxable income. Using a bunching strategy to time your deductible expenses can help maximize your ability to take itemized deductions and reduce your tax liability. Consider a DAF for charitable gifts. 			Do you need help understanding the tax consequences of the sale of shares acquired through your RSU plan? If so, when you sell shares of stock, you may have capital gains or losses to the extent your sale price is higher or lower than your cost basis. If you held the shares for more than one year, such gains or losses will be subject to the long-term rates. MISCELLANEOUS ISSUES
 Do you need to plan for tax withholdings in the year of vesting? If so, consider the following: Upon vesting, your employer is required to withhold according to the supplemental withholding rates. Depending on your tax situation, this could be insufficient and you would need to make estimated payments. Your employer may automatically retain shares sufficient to cover withholdings and issue the remaining shares to you. If you have a choice under your plan, you may also sell shares to cover withholdings or pay in with outside funds. 			Do you need to assess your employer's future equity value and long-term viability? If so, be mindful of becoming overly financially dependent upon your employer (as your sole source of earned income and a potentially large percentage of your net worth). Is there a risk that your company will be acquired in the near future? If so, consider how an acquisition might affect any unvested RSUs.
Does your company offer the IRC §83(i) election to defer the recognition of income for up to five years after your RSUs vest? If so, and if you are a qualified employee, consider whether making this election provides an attractive tax benefit, noting the potential risks of a decline in share value during the deferral period.			Do you have future financial goals that your RSUs/shares could help to achieve? If so, factor your vesting schedule and the estimated tax consequences into your overall plan, in coordination with your income and savings strategies.
> Do you need help determining your cost basis in any shares acquired at vesting? If so, your cost basis should equal the amount you paid for the stock (if any) plus the amount included as taxable income (see Form W-2).			 Do you need to address your RSUs in your estate plan or in a pending divorce? Does your plan allow you to designate a beneficiary? Do you need to consider any state-specific issues?
Do you need help determining your holding period for shares acquired through your RSU plan? If so, your holding period starts on the date of vesting, unless you elect to defer distribution. (continue on next column)

Dream It. Plan It. Live It.™

•

The information provided herein was obtained from sources believed to be reliable and is believed to be accurate as of the time presented, but is without any express or implied warranties of any kind. Clarity Wealth does not warrant that the information is free from error.

The information provided herein is not advice specific to you or your circumstances but is instead general tips and education. None of the information provided herein is intended as investment, tax or legal advice. Your use of the information is at your sole risk. Before considering acting on any information provided herein, you should consult with your investment, tax or legal advisor.

Under no circumstances shall Clarity Wealth be liable for any direct, indirect, special or consequential damages that result from your use of, or your inability to use, the information provided herein. This information is not intended as a recommendation, offer or solicitation to buy, hold or sell any financial instrument or investment advisory services.

Securities offered through J.W. Cole Financial, Inc. (JWC) Member FINRA/SIPC. Advisory services offered through J.W. Cole Advisors Inc. (JWCA). Clarity Wealth and JWC are unaffiliated entities.

Team at Clarity Wealth

119 NW 137th Drive, Suite 30 Newberry, FL 32669 cwteam@claritywealthplan.com | (352) 607-2207 | www.claritywealthplan.com